

Capital Culture presents

SUB-SAHARAN JOURNEYS

Ethiopia and Namibia

An exhibition of photographs by John Kenny

3 Bedfordbury gallery, Covent Garden, London
Friday 9th July - Saturday 31st July 2010

In 2006 John Kenny began a series of journeys that would take him through some of Sub-Saharan Africa's remotest communities and 12 African countries. Capital Culture will be exhibiting stunning photographs from Ethiopia and Namibia at 3 Bedfordbury gallery in Covent Garden, London, during July 2010.

These intimate portraits are achieved using natural sunlight only, reflected from the bare earth below. The deliberate isolation of subject from surrounding distractions, using the darkness of village huts, allows the viewer to engage more intimately with each one of these beautiful, life-sized photographs. At times the feeling of being drawn into the subject's world can be overwhelming.

'It's possibly ridiculous to suggest that no words can describe John Kenny's photographs, since I'm writing a review on his solo exhibition at Capital Culture! Though maybe that will prepare you for what you will encounter if you pay the show a visit.' Loredana D'Andrea (Spoonfed)

Each image is accompanied by a description of the subject, their community and often John's experience in taking the picture that provides a context of place and society. Together, these words and pictures illuminate the nomadic and semi-nomadic lifestyles that continue to exist in Africa as we reach into the third millenium.

For more information please contact info@capitalculture.eu.

For more images see www.capitalculture.eu or www.john-kenny.com

EXHIBITION DATES: Friday July 9th - Saturday July 31st.

Open Daily 11am - 6pm.

Entry Free.

3 BEDFORDBURY
COVENT GARDEN

info@3bedfordbury.com
+44 (0)20 3268 2184

